

Yarshater Lectureship in Avestan and Pahlavi Languages

The Department of Near and Middle Eastern Civilizations at the University of Toronto invites applications for a three-year, contractually-limited term appointment for the Yarshater Lectureship in Avestan and Pahlavi Languages. This appointment will be at the rank of Assistant Professor, Teaching Stream, and will begin on July 1, 2016 and end June 30, 2019, with the possibility of a renewal for a further three years..

The successful candidate will have an appropriate PhD by the time of their appointment, will have teaching responsibilities at both the undergraduate and graduate levels, and demonstrate evidence of excellence in teaching and research. Evidence of excellence in teaching can be demonstrated by student course evaluations, teaching awards, and/or pedagogically innovative curricular materials. The Department is seeking a scholar who will contribute to its offerings in Old and Middle Iranian languages, literature and culture. The University of Toronto actively encourages innovative scholarship and offers opportunities for collaborative and interdisciplinary research and teaching, as well as the excitement of working with a diverse student population.

Salary will be commensurate with qualifications and experience.

All qualified candidates are invited to apply by clicking on the link below. Applications should include a cover letter outlining research and teaching interests together with a curriculum vitae. If you have questions about this position, please contact nmc@utoronto.ca. All application materials should be submitted online. We will begin reviewing applications on June 17, 2016, and continue until the position is filled. Submission guidelines can be found at: <http://uoft.me/how-to-apply>. We recommend combining attached documents into one or two files in PDF/MS word format. Applicants should also ask three referees to send signed letters on letterhead via email directly to Professor Timothy P. Harrison, at nmc@utoronto.ca.
